

Course Competency Report by Code

Code: C100

Introduction to Humanities (C100)

Course of Study: C100 - Introduction to Humanities
 Course Level: Undergraduate
 Course Division: General Education
 Discipline: Humanities
 Course Type:
 Department: General Education

COMPETENCY #	COMPETENCY NAME	COMPETENCY TEXT
129.1.1	Foundations of Humanities	The graduate assesses the development of humans through the study of key concepts, disciplines, and primary influences of the humanities.
129.1.2	Classical Period	The graduate analyzes the primary contributions and characteristics of humanities during the Classical period.
129.1.3	Middle Ages	The graduate analyzes the primary contributions and characteristics of humanities during the Middle Ages.
129.1.4	Renaissance	The graduate analyzes the primary contributions and characteristics of humanities during the Renaissance.
129.1.5	Baroque	The graduate analyzes the primary contributions and characteristics of humanities during the Baroque period.
129.1.6	Neoclassicism and Enlightenment	The graduate analyzes the primary contributions and characteristics of humanities within the Neoclassical and Enlightenment period.
129.1.7	Romanticism	The graduate analyzes the primary contributions and characteristics of humanities during the Romantic period.
129.1.8	Realism	The graduate analyzes the primary contributions and characteristics of humanities during the Realist movement.
129.1.9	Modernism: The age of "isms" and "-tions"	The graduate analyzes the primary contributions and characteristics of humanities during the Modernist movement.
129.1.10	Postmodernism	The graduate analyzes the primary contributions and characteristics of humanities during the Postmodernist movement.