

Course Competency Report by Code

Code: C167

Introduction to Philosophy (C167)

Course of Study: C167 - Introduction to Philosophy
Course Level: Undergraduate
Course Division: General Education
Discipline: Philosophy
Course Type:
Department: General Education

COMPETENCY #	COMPETENCY NAME	COMPETENCY TEXT
1006.1.1	The Nature of Philosophy	The graduate explains the nature of philosophical inquiry.
1006.1.2	The First Philosophers	The graduate evaluates seminal moments, concepts, and figures in the early history of philosophy, including the ancient origins of philosophical thought in Asia and the West.
1006.1.3	Classical Greek Philosophers	The graduate evaluates the questions and arguments associated with the philosophers of classical Greece, most notably Socrates, Plato, Aristotle, and the Stoics.
1006.1.4	Medieval and Early Modern Philosophy	The graduate evaluates the questions and arguments associated with the philosophers of the medieval and early modern periods, most notably Aquinas, Descartes, and Hume.
1006.1.5	Nineteenth Century Philosophy	The graduate evaluates the questions, positions, and arguments associated with the philosophers of the nineteenth century, most notably, Marx, James, Kierkegaard, and Nietzsche.
1006.1.6	Philosophy in Contemporary Life	The graduate identifies, summarizes, and evaluates the work of contemporary philosophers, and can defend a position regarding the importance of philosophy in contemporary life.