ELC4/ELC5- Specific Teaching Practices: Objective Assessment

The ELC4/ELC5 objective assessment is a comprehensive assessment covering the entire Specific Teaching Practices domain:

- Math and Science;
- Reading, Writing, and Spelling;

Follow the instructions in this document for accessing and completing this assessment once you have completed all performance tasks in this domain.

Performance Assessments

You must complete the Specific Teaching Practices domain's performance assessments before attempting the ELC4/ELC5 objective assessment. If you have not yet completed all of these assessments, please follow the links below to access the courses of study and complete these performance assessments.

The ELC4/ELC5 objective assessment encompasses these three courses of study:

- ELA4/5 - Specific Teaching Practices: Reading, Writing, and Spelling
- EFA4/5 - Specific Teaching Practices: Math and Science
- EHA4/5 - Specific Teaching Practices: Health, Visual and Performing Arts, and Social Studies

You should be sure to take effective notes and complete the learning activities throughout each of the three courses of study so that you will have a body of information that you can use to study to prepare for the ELC4/ELC5 objective exam.

Review for the ELC4/ELC5 Objective Assessment

Review for the objective assessment by completing any of the following:

- Take or review the PAP4/5 pre-assessment for the objective exam, available through your AAP. The results will provide a percentage for each of the topics in this course of study.
- Then, review your notes for the topics you did not score well on. Your textbook will have additional online resources to help you check your understanding.
- Another way to check your understanding is to start with blank paper and write down your understanding of the topic. It may also help to imagine that you are teaching this topic to a student.
- You can also post your understanding in the Specific Teaching Practices Learning Community for review.

Once you have confidence with your new knowledge, take the pre-assessment again.

Take the Objective Assessment

Take the ELC4/5 objective assessment at the time and location you have scheduled.

Follow these directions for accessing your objective assessment.
